STATEMENT OF FACTS

I. Facts Common to All Claims

20. On or about March 4, 2016, EZ Limo hired Mr. Rivera as a Senior Chauffeur.

21. Throughout his employment with EZ Limo, Mr. Rivera was a diligent, dedicated employee who consistently fulfilled his job responsibilities.

22. During his employment with EZ Limo, Mr. Rivera drove many well-known celebrities, including Aretha Franklin, Cindy Crawford, T-Pain, Tony Bennett, Richard Gere, and the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball team.

23. On or about November 18, 2016, EZ Limo abruptly terminated Mr. Rivera's employment without explanation.

II. Overtime Claims

24. Mr. Rivera was non-exempt from FLSA and NYLL overtime pay requirements throughout his employment at EZ Limo.

25. Mr. Rivera was supervised by Mr. Matls throughout his employment at EZ Limo.

26. Mr. Matls was responsible for making hiring and firing decisions, supervising and disciplining EZ Limo employees, deciding which clients EZ Limo would take on, and developing EZ Limo policy and strategy.

27. Mr. Matls assigned work to Mr. Rivera.

28. Mr. Rivera did not have a predetermined schedule or set hours.

29. Instead, Mr. Rivera worked on an on-call basis: Mr. Matls would text Mr. Rivera and inform him that there was a job.

30. Upon receiving a text from Mr. Matls notifying him of a job, Mr. Rivera was expected to leave immediately to pick up the client.

31. In sum, Mr. Matls was in charge of managing and assigning daily tasks to Mr. Rivera, and Mr. Rivera performed work at Mr. Matls' direction.

32. Throughout his employment at EZ Limo, Mr. Rivera was paid a salary of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) per week, intended as compensation for his work performed Friday through Sunday.

33. Assuming a work week of forty (40) hours, Defendants should have paid Mr. Rivera an hourly rate of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) an hour.

34. Mr. Rivera was paid an additional twenty dollars ($20.00) per hour for work performed on Saturdays.

35. Mr. Rivera worked approximately three (3) Saturdays per month during each month of his employment at EZ Limo.

36. Mr. Rivera worked between seventy-five (75) and eighty-five (85) hours per week throughout his employment at EZ Limo, as described below:

- i. Mr. Rivera worked three (3) to four (4) jobs per day.
- ii. Each job typically lasted a minimum of two (2) hours and a maximum of five (5) hours.
- iii. Mr. Rivera worked seven (7) days per week for three (3) weeks each month.
- iv. Mr. Rivera worked six (6) days per week for one (1) week each month.
- v. Mr. Rivera did not take a sick day or vacation in the entirety of his employment at EZ Limo.

37. As a result, Mr. Rivera worked in excess of forty (40) hours in every week of his employment at EZ Limo.

38. However, Defendants never paid Mr. Rivera at the overtime premium rate for hours worked in excess of forty (40) in a work week.

III. Notice and Record-Keeping Claims

39. Defendants also failed to adhere to the notice and record-keeping requirements set forth in NYLL § 195 by failing to:

- i. provide Mr. Rivera, upon his hiring, a notice informing him of his hourly rate of pay (including the overtime premium rate), any allowances, the regular payday designated by EZ Limo, and EZ Limo's address and telephone number;
- ii. provide Mr. Rivera with a wage statement or paystub on each payday including the above information as well as Mr. Rivera's name and the dates covered by the payment;
- iii. notify Mr. Rivera in writing or by publicly posting its policy on sick leave, vacation, personal leave, holidays and hours; and
- iv. notify Mr. Rivera of the termination of his employment, in writing, including the exact date of his termination.

IV. Gratuity Claims

40. EZ Limo serves private clients, as well as clients who are referred to EZ Limo by two other luxury chauffeur companies: London Towncars of New York, Inc. ("London Towncars"), and LimousinesWorldwide.com, Inc. ("Limousines Worldwide").

41. Mr. Matls would call London Towncars and Limousines Worldwide to ask if they had any jobs available; likewise, London Towncars and Limousines Worldwide would contact Mr. Matls to inform him that there was a job available, typically requesting a specific vehicle in EZ Limo's fleet.

42. Upon information and belief, London Towncars and Limousines Worldwide both charge their clients a gratuity for each job, to be paid to the chauffeur.

43. Upon information and belief, these gratuities are individually calculated for each job based on several factors, including client, job length, and vehicle type.

44. However, Mr. Rivera never received any gratuities for any ride, including London Towncars and Limousines Worldwide referrals, in the entirety of his employment at EZ Limo.

45. Upon information and belief, Defendants retained the chauffeurs' gratuities that were billed to clients of EZ Limo who were referred by London Towncars and Limousines Worldwide.
